

Curriculum Books

The First Hundred Years

By:

William H. Schubert, Ann Lynn Lopez Schubert,

Second Edition (2002)

PETER LANG

New York • Washington, D.C./Baltimore • Bern
Frankfurt am Main • Berlin • Brussels • Vienna • Oxford

TABLE OF CONTENTS	Acknowledgments from the First Edition	ix
	Acknowledgments from the Second Edition	xi
	Preface	xiii
	Purpose and Organization	xiii
	How the First Edition Developed	xiv
	Revising Curriculum Books	xvii
	On Citation Selections	xix
	Introduction	xxiii
	Curriculum Study	xxiii
	Curriculum as a Formal Area of Inquiry	xxvi
	1 Curriculum Literature and Context 1861–1909	1
	Contextual Reminders	1
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	5
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1900–1909	15
	2 Curriculum Literature and Context 1910–1919	19
	Contextual Reminders	19
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	23
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1910–1919	28
	3 Curriculum Literature and Context 1920–1929	31
	Contextual Reminders	31
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	36
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1920–1929	45
	4 Curriculum Literature and Context 1930–1939	53
	Contextual Reminders	53
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	59
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1930–1939	71
	5 Curriculum Literature and Context 1940–1949	81
	Contextual Reminders	81
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	87
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1940–1949	99

6	Curriculum Literature and Context 1950—1959	107
	Contextual Reminders	107
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	115
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1950—1959	129
7	Curriculum Literature and Context 1960—1969	137
	Contextual Reminders	137
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	148
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1960—1969	166
8	Curriculum Literature and Context 1970—1979	185
	Contextual Reminders	185
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	193
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1970—1979	219
9	Curriculum Literature and Context 1980—1989	247
	Contextual Reminders	247
	Curriculum Thought and Literature	257
	A Nation at Risk	257
	Proposals for Curriculum Integration	263
	A Proliferation of Curriculum Theories	267
	A New Orientation Emerges: Critical Reconstruction	268
	Critics and Distinct Voices	270
	The Individual and the Curriculum	272
	The Expansion of Curriculum Research	275
	Business as Usual: Curriculum Development	278
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1980—1989	290
10	Curriculum Literature and Context 1990—2000	335
	Contextual Reminders	335
	Curriculum Literature and Thought	353
	National SOP (Standard Operating Procedures)	353
	Restructuring Schooling	356
	Possibilities in Critical Reconstruction	360
	Other Contributors to Critical Reconstruction	365
	The Flourishing of Difference	367
	Revising Curriculum History	370
	The Teacher, the Self as Curriculum	373
	The Varieties of Difference	377
	Developing a “Centered” Curriculum	382
	Special Needs, One Curriculum	392
	Curriculum Development: Anachronistic or Reformed?	392
	The Synoptic Text at Century's End	400
	Bibliography of Curriculum Books 1990—2000	407
11	Curriculum Literature and Its Authors:
	Profile, Observations, And Recommendations	483
	Review and Profile	484
	Observations and Possibilities	489
	Inheritors of a Journey	489
	Delimiters of the Journey	490
	Purveyors of Schooling	491
	Developers of Curriculum	492
	Professor of Curriculum Knowledge	492
	Generators of Knowledge	494

Recommendations	496
The Search for Origins	496
The Emulation of Origins	496
The Ideal and the Mundane	498
Non-School Curricula	499
A "Theory" Within Persons	500
12 Curriculum Literature and Its Authors: More Thoughts
After 20 Additional Years of Pondering	.501
Contemporary Overviews on the Curriculum Field	504
New Curriculum Discourses	504
The Expansion of Emphasis in Work by Key
Curriculum Scholars	506
From Mentor to Student and Onward	508
Curriculum Defined Simply by the Questions of Worth	516
The Expanding Curriculum	518
Conclusion	524
Some Questions to Ponder	525
A Final Wonder by Bill Schubert (How Final, is the Question?!)	526
Notes	529
Bibliographic Index	539
Name Index	575
Subject Index	601